

The Stinkbug who conquered the World

One day far, far forward in the timeline there was a scientist who invented a growth ray. To test his experiment he shot a little bug. But he didn't know that the bug was a carnivorous stinkbug! Once he hit it, the stinkbug grew the size of a five-story building!

The stinkbug sprayed its deadly gas and killed the scientist. Then it ate him. The stench spread to the other houses and killed the people inside of them! It ate them too. A person saw this and he called the military.

In a few days the military came to stop the Stinkbug. But their efforts were in vain, because after a guy took the first shot, the Stinkbug sprayed and killed them all! He ate them, also.

In a few days the Stinkbug conquered Arizona and moved to California. The Air Force had a base in California. So, they lifted off to attack the Stinkbug. They fired their rockets and BOOM! The Stinkbug got a cut and got very mad. It sprayed, and its gas destroyed the first fighter. The fighters kept firing and were eventually destroyed!

This evil Stinkbug was unstoppable. It moved throughout the U.S.A. and conquered it.

There was another scientist in Europe who invented a shrink ray. He gave it to a soldier and told him that it would shrink the Stinkbug to its normal size. So, the soldier went to America and shot the Stinkbug. Unfortunately, there was a virus that reversed the effect, and the Stinkbug grew even bigger. The Stinkbug went to Central America destroying everything in its path. It eventually got through Central America and moved on to South America. It started to conquer South America, but then it remembered it had wings! So, after it conquered South America. The Stinkbug flew over the ocean to Antarctica. Where it gathered an army of mutated penguins who had wings that could fly. So, the Stinkbug gathered this army and with it conquered Africa. When they conquered half of Asia, the scientist from Europe tried the shrink ray again, and this time it worked. So, he went to Asia, and hit the Stinkbug. The Stinkbug returned to its normal size and the scientist put it in a jar. But there was still the rampaging penguins to deal with. So, he invented a demutifier. He hit all of the penguins and they went back to their original form. The scientist gave them all to a museum.

Then he threw away the shrink ray because it was out of power. But it was full of the growth ray's power. So, when he threw it, it hit a stickbug and it grew to the size of the Stinkbug! But that's a different story.
